

Would you like a scholarship to become a software developer and start a career in Ireland's tech sector?

IT recruitment company Zartis.com is offering 10 scholarships for asylum seekers and refugees to learn software development. The Level Up Software Development Scholarship covers 100% of costs related to obtaining a professional diploma in coding plus assistance in finding a full-time job in Ireland's tech sector. The usual cost of a course is approximately €5,000.

The course is completed entirely online with each participant supported by a mentor. Courses typically take four to six months to complete at which point candidates should be ready for entry level roles in software development.

About you (the candidate)

You are a refugee or asylum seeker living in Ireland

You have good written and spoken English

You have a demonstrable technical aptitude

You have a genuine interest in software development

You're willing to commit to a four to six month online course

You're willing to work in an entry level role in the tech sector

The application process

Please send us a copy of your CV plus a letter explaining why you think you're the best candidate for this scholarship.

Graduates of the course will be provided with career coaching, mentoring and introductions to some of Ireland's best tech companies to secure full time employment. Our goal is for 100% of graduates to have started their career in tech within 3 months of graduating.

To apply online go to:

<https://my.hirehive.io/zartis/jobs/34347/level-up-software-development-scholarship-remote>