

9. The Story Teller:

Venue: Fishamble St Walkway,
City council Offices.

Date: Monday September 19th - Thursday 23rd 2011

5 storytellers from 5 different global cultures. 5 spellbinding sets that create 5 different storyworlds', each representing a storytellers own unique culture. 5 classes of schoolchildren, each from a different Dublin School. This series draws inspiration from both from Nigerian television, especially the legendary series 'Tales By Moonlight' and from the resurgence in spoken word storytelling as an artform in Ireland. As a co-production between Dublin Community Television and Spirasi of 10 stories for children and a 1 hour documentary for adults, the series showcases a whole new Ireland to the viewer. Filmed in beautifully designed sets these live performances, by both new and experienced storytellers, include singing, music, comedy and dance to capture the imagination of children everywhere. The mix of cultures comes not just from the storytellers who originate from five different global cultures, coming from Ireland, Nigeria, Jamaica, India and Mauritius but from the schoolchildren themselves. Reflecting as they do the new multicultural city of Dublin.
