During the Celtic Tiger period private business and the Irish Government travelled the world to interest professionals to relocate to meet the labour market demands in all areas.

Migrants professionals and entrepreneurs continue to contribute hugely even while all people continue to bear the pain of the recession, property crisis and unemployment.

BGI was established in 2009 as part of AkiDWA project with the following objectives:

- I. To create and facilitate a strong networking opportunity for migrant professionals and entrepreneurs in Ireland where they can share experiences and information
- II. To share, explore and highlight the 'gains' and contributions made by migrant professionals and entrepreneurs in Ireland and overseas
